The Tour de Troit is intended to raise awareness of biking as a mode of transportation; publicize the growing greenways network in the City of Detroit and all of Southeastern Michigan; and to raise funds for the ongoing maintenance of the Corktown-Mexicantown Greenlink, a project of the Greater Corktown Development Corporation.

The Corktown-Mexicantown Greenlink is a series of bike lanes and pedestrian paths that connect Corktown and Mexicantown to each other and to the Detroit River, specifically the Detroit Riverfront Conservancy's vision for the West Riverfront.
